News

- China has formally joined today the World Health Organization-led COVAX facility. Its foreign ministry in a statement affirmed that it has sufficient vaccine manufacturing capabilities, and will prioritize the distribution of the vaccines to developing economies when these are ready. The COVAX facility aims to supply at least 2 billion doses of vaccines to low- and middle-income economies by the end of next year.
- The physician for US President Trump has confirmed that the president has completed his course of COVID-19 treatments, and had remained stable since returning to the White House last Monday. The president is likely to return to attending public events as soon as tomorrow.
- In the United States, drugmaker Regeneron has submitted an application to the US Food and Drug Administration for emergency approval of its experimental antibody cocktail, which had been administered to President Trump. The company said that the initial access to the treatment, if approved, is extremely limited—with only enough doses for 50,000 patients—until production is ramped up.
