Statistics

- Worldwide confirmed cases stood at 21.7 million yesterday, after surpassing the 21-million mark last Friday. More than half a million new cases were recorded over the weekend.
- The ASEAN+3 region saw more than 6,800 additional infections yesterday.
- Korea yesterday recorded 197 new infections. This was a slight decline from the 279 new cases reported on Saturday, which was the highest daily figure since late-February.
- Japan saw over 1,000 new infections for the fourth-straight day yesterday, bringing its total cases to above 56,000. Tokyo added more than 350 new infections yesterday.
- The Philippines yesterday surpassed the 160-thousand mark for confirmed cases, after it recorded more than 7,500 new infections in total over the weekend.
- New infections in Indonesia have exceeded 2,000 for four straight days as of yesterday, after reporting 2,081 additional cases across the country. Total confirmed cases stood close to 140,000, with the death toll at 6,150.
- New Zealand reported 10 additional cases yesterday, bringing the total new cases reported during the first two weeks of August to at least 60—double the new case count for the whole of July. Of the August figures, more than 50 cases are linked to the Auckland cluster.

News

- The Director-General of Malaysia's health ministry reported that local scientists have found a mutation of the COVID-19 virus that is "10 times" more infectious, after studying samples from three local cases.
- Australia is reportedly in the final stages of negotiations with a multinational vaccine manufacturer, which will allow the latter to produce the vaccine domestically while using local facilities.
- Russia's Health Ministry has reported that the first batch of its newly-approved vaccine, Sputnik V, has now been produced. The vaccine is expected to be rolled-out by end-August.
- The prime minister of New Zealand has delayed general elections by a month, due to a spike in the country's infections. The decision followed the government's 12-day extension of its COVID-19 restrictions last Friday.
- Latest GDP releases show double-digit contractions for Japan and Thailand. Official preliminary estimates for Japan indicate a 27.8 percent contraction in Q2, on an annualized basis. Thailand's economy, meanwhile, shrunk by 12.2 percent year-on-year in Q2, the most severe contraction in more than two decades.
