News

- In the Philippines, partial restrictions under the “general community quarantine” in Manila will remain in place for at least another two weeks. Strict stay-at-home orders were re-imposed in Cebu City, the country’s fifth most populous city, due to a rise in new cases. Restrictions were further eased in regions with low virus risk.
- In China, Beijing has closed all schools and raised its emergency response to level two. As the new outbreak has been linked to a wholesale seafood and meat market, authorities are increasing inspections of imported meat and seafood.
- Hong Kong is lifting more social distancing restrictions, including increasing the limit on public gatherings from 8 to 50 people and allowing restaurants to operate at full capacity.
- In a clinical trial of 6,000 patients led by Oxford University, an inexpensive, widely available low-dose steroid called dexamethasone has been shown to reduce death rates among severe cases of Covid-19. Scientist called it the first drug proven to reduce coronavirus-related deaths.
